

II. Enrichment

This level helps intact teams identify individual skills and personal strengths, and explore ways to share resources and work across corporate barriers.

Who should attend?

- Established groups
- Teams that desire skill-building
- Those who want to develop a greater understanding of team development

How the enrichment process works

- Each participant completes an assessment survey, which assists in determining the specific goals for the program.
- The team participates in a variety of experience-based learning activities.
- The team completes a follow-up conference at your preferred site to confirm implementation of the team building process.

Time commitment: Full day

The initial tasks will be relatively easy and will become progressively more challenging as the day and experience continues. We ask that participants come to the experience with an open mind and a willingness to learn about themselves and their team.
